Venue

Golf Club du Domaine Impérial is situated on Lake Geneva, halfway between Geneva and Lausanne at 385 metres above sea-level. The name derives from the Napoleon family who once owned the historic club house which dates from the 19th century. The golf course is more recent, having been designed by the American architect Pete Dye in 1985 and opened in 1987. Many major events have been hosted here, including the International European Amateur Championship in 1997, the Swiss International Championships in 1993 and 2004, the International European Mid-Amateur Championship in 2007 and the European Young Masters last year. For further information kindly log on to the club's website at www.golfdomaineimperial.com.
